

What's the deal with Apple Street
Market?

Q:

What will

Apple Street sell?

A:

It'll be a full-service grocery (produce, dairy, meat, fish, frozen, paper products, health & beauty, beer & wine), with a wide range of prices (local, affordable, generic, organic).

Q:

What does it mean that Apple Street is a co-op?

A:

It'll be owned and controlled by employees and the community (you!),
but anyone can shop
here – no membership required!

Q:

Who's behind Apple Street?

A:

Your neighbors (see our website
for a growing list of community volunteers), with help from the Cincinnati Union
Co-op Initiative.

Q:

What's the hurry, Apple Street?

A:

A walkable grocery ensures access for everyone and preserves Northside's economic diversity.

A:

This is the best (only?) building for a grocery in Northside, but U-Haul is also interested...

Q:

How will Apple Street succeed if Save-A-Lot failed?

A:

Better quality produce and meats, and a community owned store better serves the community.

Q:

Doesn't the building suck?

A:

We think it has great bones! And so do our contractors
and grocery experts (see for yourself, we made a poster!)

Q:

How can you help?

A:

Become an owner!

Or a block leader!

Tell your friends and neighbors!
